

Reflection for Houseplant and Container Module

The concept of Right Plant, Right Place is as applicable with houseplants as it is in the landscape.

Have you ever had houseplant survivors who lived in spite of you? Those plants that carried on but never seemed to thrive? What role do you think the conditions you provided the plant played in its inability to thrive?

When choosing houseplants for yourself going forward, what factors will you consider? What factors will you consider when buying gift plants for others?
